An escalating epidemic of overweight and obesity is affecting many countries in the world. In India some people tend to be overweight because of their high calories diet and lack of physical activities. In the united states obesity is more. It is defined as an excess amount of body weight that includes muscles, bone fat and water. Some people such as body builders or other athletes with a lot of muscle can be overweight without being obese.

Generally women have more body fat than men. Usually men with more than 25% body fat and women more than 30% body fat are regarded as obese. Obesity tends to run in families suggesting a genetic cause. Environmental factors means lifestyle behavior such as what a person eats and his or her level of physical activity. You can learn how to choose more nutritional means are low in fat and become more active. Then there are psychological factors. Negative emotions such as boredom, sadness or anger respond to people who over eat. There is also "binge eating" when people eat large amount of food thinking that they can not control how much they are eating. Those people also suffered from depression and low esteem. These people may have more difficulty in losing weight.

Obesity is more than a cosmetic problem; it is a health hazard. Several serious medical conditions have been linked to obesity, including type-2 diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure and stroke. It is also linked to higher rates of certain types of cancer other diseases also linked to obesity include gallbladder disease and gallstones, liver disease, osteoarthritis which leads to deterioration of joints gout which also effect the joint and reproductive problems in women.
